Editorial

Pedestrians, cyclists and motorcyclists make up almost half of those killed on the roads. This highlights the need for these road users to be given more attention in road safety programs. For young people traffic is killer No.1. Around 90 per cent of road fatalities occur in emerging and developing countries.

Road safety nowadays is not a priority anymore. Therefore the proclamation of the UN Decade of Action for Road Safety 2011-2020 came on the right moment. And is the Annual World Day of Remembrance for Road Crash Victims a necessary initiative to keep the awareness on a high level.

This year the Remembrance Day will be held on 20 November, we at La Prévention Routière Internationale PRI will share a thought in commemoration of all the loved ones who passed away and to their families due to a road traffic crash during this current Year.

Nigeria is one of the countries, which is determined to bring down the number of road crash victims. Governmental and non-governmental organizations, Federal and State bodies and local community authorities are developing a strong cooperation to realize synergy between the different activities and actions. Facebook is used as an important and useful tool for communication. Lively discussions are taking place on and interesting suggestions for raising the awareness of the people and the politicians are being made in the PRI Facebook Group and other African focused ones. On Facebook a Coalition of Road Safety NGO's for Africa (CORSANA FB Group) has been established. By exchanging experiences and good practices and by transferring knowledge and expertise reinventing the wheel can be prevented and better results can be achieved quicker.

To build capacity and a good framework to execute road safety policy and effective measures a Road Safety Course especially for developing countries has been developed. More about this Dutch initiative ("RoadSafetyForAll") you will find in this newsletter and on <http://roadsafetycourse.org>. The first course is scheduled next year.

World Day of Remembrance for Road Traffic Victims

Call to all members

On November 2011 , the World Day of Remembrance for Road Traffic Victims will take place. The World Day of Remembrance for Road Traffic Victims raises public awareness and is an important call for action from all road crash victims to policy makers and civilians to make road safety a number 1 priority.

PRI wants to give special attention to the World Day of Remembrance for Road Traffic Victims. In order to do this we need your assistance. So please send us a short description and pictures of the activities, that will be held in your country or by your organization on 20 November 2011 to commemorate road traffic victims.

Your contributions will be used for our PRI Website: www.lapri.info and also for the next Newsletter and the Annual report 2011. With great interest we are looking forward to your entries.
